

Why

When COVID hit, it catapulted the world into a state of volatility, uncertainty, complexity, and ambiguity. And this V.U.C.A. world isn't about to change any time soon. But just like an airplane that re-balances and returns to a steady state after periods of turbulence, so too can managers develop a similar sense of "dynamic stability." By enhancing six key leadership qualities they can bring strength, purpose, and confidence to the people around them.

What

The six leadership qualities we develop in the thrive* program are courage, clear vision, communication, creative thinking, collaboration, and calm resilience. Participants work through six modules blending online learning with interactive group webinars. Then, participants present a live project applying the tools and techniques they have learned for final evaluation.

Who

Thrive* is ideal for managers and leaders who want to successfully navigate their teams through these challenging times by:

- Feeling confident to step into the unknown
- Leading with a clear vision and road-map
- Communicating with clarity and empathy
- Inventing new ways to solve daily problems
- Improving collaboration and team work
- Maintaining a strong and resilient inner core

When

Thrive* is typically delivered over a 6 month period and conducted in small groups of 5-8 people. The program includes:

- A Lumina Spark Personality Portrait
- Online access to thrive* course modules
- Learning Journals for each module
- 6 x 1.5-hour group facilitation webinars
- Live project and presentation as a case study
- Feedback and support from Lead Coach
- A Certificate of Achievement for 15 hours

How

develop "dynamic stability"

By enhancing the specific mindset and skills you need to successfully navigate your way through turbulent and challenging times.

apply to real challenges

By putting what you learn immediately into practice to resolve current issues, invent new solutions, and get the best out of your team.

learn on-the-job

By combining self-study with interactive group webinars over a period of 6 months you can fit your learning around your day job.

Us

Here at brainsparker, we bring over 18 years of experience coaching managers and leaders to create, innovate, and lead the next frontier. Our programs blend online learning with live facilitation both virtually and face-to-face. We're based in London, UK, and work globally